This is a two-story rectangular American Foursquare style dwelling built ca. 1915. The house has a hipped roof of asphalt shingles, a rock-faced continuous concrete block foundation, an interior brick chimney and an exterior of synthetic siding. On the main (N) elevation is a single-story, full-width porch enclosed with screen panels and supported by rock-faced concrete block piers. The main entrance retains its original, oval-light glass and wood door with an exterior, nine-light glass and wood storm door. Adjacent to the entrance is a large, single-light fixed window with a multi-light transom. Both the window and entrance have simple wood cornice surrounds. On the second-story of the main façade is a tri-part bay window with two, one-over-one double hung wood sash windows flanking the central single-light fixed window with a single-light transom. At the roofline is a hipped roof dormer with two, single-light attic windows. On the east elevation are two-story, bay windows with a similar window pattern as the main façade. Windows throughout the dwelling are primarily original, one-over-one double hung wood sash with simple wood cornice surrounds. On the rear façade an original enclosed porch on first floor with living space above. The rear facade enclosed porch has original wood casement windows with multi-light transoms.

To the rear of the dwelling and facing Lill Avenue is an original, two-bay garage with a hipped roof of asphalt shingles, an exterior of vinyl siding, a continuous concrete block foundation and two, twenty-four wood panel overhead track garage doors. - Contributing
